

infants; the oldest population groups, and others who are especially vulnerable to adverse health effects.

